Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you. I do not give to you as the world gives. Do not let your hearts be troubled, and do not let them be afraid. JOHN 14:27 NRSV

John 14:27 may seem like a strange verse for a Christmas letter. However, Jesus’ offer of peace is something the world can’t offer and exactly what we need to hear!

Having recently moved into our home in Dayton, our vision is that it will become a house of peace for all who enter. We have physically set it up to offer the most accommodating atmosphere. Beyond that, we pray that our hearts will offer up the peace Christ offers us so others can also experience His peace.

We have so appreciated all the hands that helped us move, the items that have been donated for our home, and the labor of those who decorated and painted. We appreciate those who helped us understand the legal verbiage of the contracts we signed and answered our continuous flow of questions that come with home ownership.

We also appreciate God connecting us with the young family who graciously sold us their home and have helped us navigate the perils of being first-time homeowners. They even raked our leaves before we arrived! God has used His church to bring peace into our lives during this unpeaceful season of transition.

Moving forward, we plan to connect with chaplains on base and people in the community to form a network of support for the ministry. We are grateful for the good start, but before we host in-home Bible studies, we want to be surrounded by a prayer team and have our remaining funding needs met. We also hope to build up our support team across the States, visiting friends and churches who continue to partner with us. If you or your church would like to be part of our support team, you can use the QR code below or go to our giving page at Cadence.org to learn more. You can also reach out to us by phone or email if you have more questions.

Finally, we hope you have a peace-filled Christmas season! Not a worldly peace, but one that comes from knowing Christ and the peace He brings. Thank you for partnering with us to reach the Wright-Patt Airmen with the good news celebrated this Christmas season!
