Cadence's summer internship debrief in July

Family time this fall in South Dakota

Dear friends,

I cannot express how thankful I am for each one of you. As I look back upon this year, I think of each of you and all the Lord has done. If I were to describe this fall in as few words as possible, I would say, "Full and living out of a place of joy."

This year, we launched five summer Interns, two year-long Interns, and six SkillBridge Interns. This fall, I visited four universities and did the behind-the-scenes preparations so my teammates could be present at five other universities. Our team was a part of appointing six family units for full-time ministry. I wish I could capture for you all the first contact calls and texts, calls with our missionaries to process internships, or calls and texts to encourage Interns.

It has been a full year, and when I got away for a vacation in August, the words that kept coming to mind were, "Choose joy." This has become my mantra this fall as the fullness of life kicked in. Choose joy, Katie. In choosing this, I have seen the Lord in deeper ways with a settled heart before Him.

Amid the fullness of life, these are some places I find joy.

- Hearing how the Lord has brought someone to Himself during a phone call
- Listening to our missionaries or Interns share about their ministry
- Meeting professors and hearing their hearts for their students
- Seeing co-workers excited about a call they had
- In the silence of my drive to work
- Laughing at random things (and myself) as I travel
- Writing or recording videos for my Epistle updates (I absolutely love sharing ministry with you. If you do not receive my Epistle emails, please let me know)

These are just a few.

The year is coming to an end. I want to hold onto the fullness of life (not to get mistaken for the busyness of work or the day) and the joy the Lord has called me into. I want to continue to put the Lord first in everything and live because of my joy in the Lord.

Connecting with past Interns while visiting their schools this fall

As we enter this Christmas season, I pray that we can live in the fullness the Lord has given each of us and in complete joy.

If you are looking to give above and beyond this Christmas season, whether that is your yearly tradition, out of worship to the Lord because of what He has done in your life this past year, or feel led to give, would you consider giving a one-time gift this Christmas? Raising $19,200 in one-time gifts would cover the difference between the monthly support I need to raise and my full-time salary for next year. Even as I write, that number has lowered because of some of your end-of-year gifts! Thank you.

I have shared my monthly needs before, and that number has stayed the same as new people have stepped in and others have needed to stop for a season. Thanks to all of you who faithfully give monthly and to those who give one-time gifts! These continue to allow me to keep running fully in this role at Cadence.

Thankful for each one of you.

For His Kingdom,
Katie
